Dystopian Novels

Life as We Knew It by Susan Pfeffer
The Giver by Lois Lowry
Rot and Ruin by Jonathan Maberry
Uglies by Scott Westerfeld
Gone by Michael Grant
Hunger Games by Susan Collins
The Maze Runner by James Dashner
Feed by Mira Grant
Ashfall by Mike Mullin
Momentum 14 by Emmy Laybourne
1984 by George Orwell
Legend by Marie Lu
Divergent by Veronica Roth
The Knife of Never Letting Go by Patrick Ness
Shatter Me by Tahereh Mafi
I am Number Four by Pittacus Lore
Blood Red Road by Moria Young
The City of Ember by Jeanne DuPrau
Across the Universe by Beth Revis

Incarceron by Catherine Fisher
Fahrenheit 451 by Ray Bradbury
Partials by Dan Wells
House of the Scorpion by Nancy Farmer
Cinder by Marissa Meyer
Feed by M.T. Anderson
The Maze Runner by James Dashner
Feed by Mira Grant
Warm Bodies by Isaac Marion
Ship Breaker by Paolo Bacigalupi
The Fifth Wave by Rick Yancy
Ender’s Game by Orson Scott Card
Brave New World by Aldous Huxley

dys-to-pi-a

/disˈtōpēə/
Noun
An imagined place or state in which everything is unpleasant or bad, typically a totalitarian or environmentally degraded one.