DR. LYDIA SAYE SAYS BROOK

End of the Career of a Woman of Remarkable Intelligence, Force of Character and Indomitable Life of a Native of Warwick.

About a year ago she started a school of needlework, but by her untimely death came to an end. Her death caused great sorrow among a wide circle of friends, and her two sons, who had come to recognize her talents and abilities as well as appreciate her literary and musical attainments. A woman of strong and robust constitution, she had been a busy and useful life and it ended with only isolated memories to her friends.

About a year ago the news of her death caused great sorrow among a wide circle of friends, and her two sons, who had come to recognize her talents and abilities as well as appreciate her literary and musical attainments. A woman of strong and robust constitution, she had been a busy and useful life and it ended with only isolated memories to her friends.

Dr. Lydia Sayer Hasbrouck, one of the most prominent women in the state, died at her home in Middletown, Sept. 4, 1910. The news of her death caused great sorrow among a wide circle of friends, and her two sons, who had come to recognize her talents and abilities as well as appreciate her literary and musical attainments. A woman of strong and robust constitution, she had been a busy and useful life and it ended with only isolated memories to her friends.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.

Dr. Hasbrouck, who was born in the town of Middletown, Dec. 28, 1842, in an historic home, was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Hasbrouck. Her early life was spent in the town of Middletown.